Attorney for Defendant

BROWN, Judge.

In its Opinion and Order issued May 23, 2005, this Court authorized the Bureau of Prisons (BOP) to administer to Defendant Timmins the antipsychotic medication haloperidol by injection under certain conditions and with certain restrictions. In that Order, however, the Court inadvertently failed to authorize the Bureau of Prisons to follow the standard practice for initiating any treatment with haloperidol injections to include a trial period beginning with short-acting haloperidol given once daily for three-to-five days for the purpose of ensuring Defendant Timmins does not have an adverse reaction to haloperidol. If Defendant Timmins refuses oral medication, the Court hereby authorizes the BOP to follow this standard practice for initiating treatment with haloperidol injections.

The Court's Opinion and Order issued May 23, 2005, remains in effect with the above modification.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DATED this 13th day of June, 2005.

ANNA J. BROWN
United States District Judge
